Matus has technical knowledge from the construction industry, that he leverages to advise our legal teams during complex technical disputes. He is a certified PRINCE2 project manager with a range of experiences working on collaborative construction projects.

Matus is an architectural technologist with three years of hands-on work experience and is currently studying a Master's degree in Technology Entrepreneurship at the Technical University of Denmark

The Projects & Innovation team strengthens Plesner's competences and client offering through engaging multi-disciplinary teams in the daily work of legal professionals. Matus is sought out because of his capacity to break down complex technical issues fast and in a understandable manner, and to offer our clients clear priorities and next steps through clear communication.
